Grants and Program Design

- I. Instructional Innovation: University Field Based Teaching @ Raa Middle School
1998-2017

Grant money from Best Buy was generated through collaboration with the United Way of the Big Bend. These grants funds were specifically designated for programs addressing needs of at-risk students. Further, the grants were funded for one of year start-up costs (steel pans, transportation, counselor, etc.).

FSU music education faculty and Raa Middle School teachers committed to a five year program, four additional years beyond the grant funding, in hopes of generating enough student enrollment to qualify for adding additional music teachers to the school faculty. Currently, classes in steel pans, jazz band, strings, and class piano are now offered during the school day so any student may participate, taught additional music faculty. Another feature is the tutoring program established between the Women's Glee Club and Raa Middle School, Study Buddies, designed as a part of the FSU College of Music/Raa Middle School Partnership. These options help develop the value of lifetime service for choral singers who will not become teachers. The partnership choral class remains before school to accommodate schedules of FSU choral students.

II. Instructional Innovation: Academic Partnerships for Curriculum Development, Community Outreach, and Recruitment Opportunities

The University of Louisiana Monroe:

A. Student Teaching Innovative Model (approved through the BESE Board, 2018). Implementation of the state mandated 1 full year Student Teacher Program. Louisiana state music certification is PK-12, and guidelines require 2 semesters in school settings Residency I and Residency II. Residency I requires partial school assignment and partial enrollment in university courses, while Residency II is a full time placement in a school setting. Thus, to meet state mandates and professional "best practice" for music students, the ULM music education faculty designed Residency I as 4 blocks of 4 week assignments at elementary, middle, and high schools (concluding with a preferred placement) to gain active teaching experience and observation at every level authorized by Louisiana licensure. In addition, a weekly meeting required for ALL Residency I student teachers and their assigned methods teachers for reinforcement, practice, teacher modeling, and immediate feedback. Thus, students meet for methods classes each day on campus, work 4 days per week in a partial day in an assigned student teaching location, and meet 1 day per week as a lab to solidify learning senior methods classes. This program is providing a rich learning environment for senior students. Our program is the only one in the state with this breadth of experience.

B. Integrated Arts Partnership: A Pilot (Proposed, Developed with VAPA, School of Education, and Ouachita Parish School Board, but NOT IMPLEMENTED).

Planning for an Integrated Arts Partnership with an elementary teacher, principal, ULM faculty, and a national expert for Integrated Arts Instruction was developed and tentatively scheduled, but the targeted elementary school became unavailable for participation due to state mandates requiring additional programs for change (test scores). This was followed by COVID-19 which prevented continued work on this project; it is on hold.

C. Summer Music Master of Education Degree: University of Louisiana Monroe

Creation of a non-traditional summer master of music education degree program for practicing music teachers. ULM music education faculty committed to recruiting 5 grad students per summer, and this has been exceeded, thus far. Next summer enrollments should reach 10 (Year 1, Year 2 students), with great potential to exceed this goal. (The first 2 years of enrollment in the FSU choral MME program, which we used as a model, enrolled 6 during the first year. Two students did not return (pregnancy, certification issue), thus 4 returned for year two, and with the 6 incoming new students we reached 10. I believe we can steadily build this ULM program because it meets the needs of teachers while delivering excellence in face to face teaching and mentoring.)

Year 1: 2019. Seven students enrolled, and all progressed

Year 2: 2020/2021. Delayed due to COVID-19, but 5 choral students enrolled (each indicated a plan to return next summer), with additional interest from 2 instrumental students

Year 3: 2022.

D. Redesign of ULM undergraduate music education programs to meet all NASM, Louisiana by identifying and incorporating best practice in contemporary music teacher preparation. The new programs embraced NASM standards, exceeding in some areas, met Louisiana state requirements, and built upon ULM general studies to complete the degree with licensure program. The 120 recommended hours were deemed insufficient to create a quality program, so an exception was requested and granted via state agencies to raise degree hours from 120 to 134 (choral) and 132 (instrumental) for these ULM programs. See ULM music education website for specifics.

Florida State University:

E. Capital Children's Choir, Director (1990-2000). Supervised field teaching of undergraduate and graduate students, with a semester concert. Free and open to any treble singer in the greater Tallahassee area as an FSU community service program.

F. Adopt-A-Choir is an on-going program of community partnerships between FSU Women's Glee Club and public school programs, serving to broaden the curriculum as well as provide rich opportunities for students to develop musical competence and leadership skills. Students may use Adopt-A-Choir to qualify for service learning credit, or simply volunteer.

G. University/Urban School Partnership: Memphis TN (FSU faculty)

This 3-year partnership, Middle School Memphis, involved teaming with a school district and university to serve as a consultant for completely redesign and rebuilding the middle school choral programs. Year 1 involved instruction, equipment and materials to improve instruction immediately; year 2 focused on teacher delivery and planning; year three involved teacher planning, student assessment, and teacher mentoring.

The three-year approach organized all teachers into teams headed by a lead teacher, with the goal of no longer needing a choral clinician after year three because the lead teachers could fulfill this role in conjunction with the university personnel.

H. FSU Summer Program Development: Master of Choral Music Education

Providing a summer MME program for outstanding teachers not wanting to permanently leave their jobs became a choral music education goal, based on professional interactions with choral teachers at state, regional, and national professional meetings. The primary challenge became the provision of an authentic program with high standards and expectations that would still reasonably fit into summer study.

Six students who were highly successful young Florida teachers and recent graduates of the FSU undergraduate program enrolled in 1998 to initiate year one of summer MME study. Summer 2017 marks the 19th year, and first year enrollment expanded to 21 choral students who reflect a national profile. Through 2017, 167 students have earned graduate degrees. One unique attraction is offering two summers of study on the Tallahassee campus, and the third year of study at the FSU London program. The curriculum focus is (a) creating master teachers and (b) developing professional leadership, with limited study of research methodology (traditional music education approach). This has been successful beyond all expectations, and students come from all geographical parts of the county.
